Hot Bread Made Wholesome,

The Royal Baking Powder possesses a peculiar merit that is not possessed by any other leavening agent. It provides bread, biscuit, cake, muffins, or rolls which may be eaten when hot without inconvenience by persons of the most delicate digestive organs. With most persons, it is necessary that bread raised with yeast should lose its freshness or become stale before it can be eaten with safety. The same distressing results follow from eating biscuit, cake, pastry, etc., raised by the cheap, inferior baking powders that contain lime, alum, or other adulterants. The hot roll and muffin, and the delicious hot griddle cakes, raised by Royal Baking Powder, are as wholesome and digestible as warm soup, meat, or any other food.

Another greatly superior quality possessed by the Royal Baking Powder is that by which the preservation of important elements of the flour is effected in raising the bread by the mechanical operation of the gas without fermentation. Yeast, and all baking powders that produce the leavening gas by fermentation, as is well known, destroy a portion of the nutritive elements of the flour, and particularly those which are the most healthful and the greatest aids to a perfect assimilation of the food. The Royal Baking Powder, while perfectly leavening, retains without change or impairment all those elements which were intended by nature, when combined in our bread, to make it literally the "staff of life."

No leavening agent or baking powder, except the Royal Baking Powder, possesses these great qualifications.

Androscoggin

Two valuable heifers owned by John Lynch at Thorncrag Corner, and pastured at Robert Hilde's were killed by lightning in the recent shower. They lay, when found, on each side of the road where the lightning struck. One of them was found with nose buried in the damp earth with fore legs doubled up and the hind legs stretched out as if running when she fell. Mr. Lynch only a few months before, lost a valuable horse.

The Lewiston Journal tells of the many narrow escapes recently experienced by a promenading Boston merchant who has been visiting in Lewiston. He was tipped out of a carriage and rescued at the bottom of the gulch on the ditch side. A Hereford bull shook his horns at him one day, and the portly Boston merchant climbed as hurriedly as his extra weight would allow over the garden wall. A stumble slipped on the Town where he was gathering cherries, and he burst two of the "gallus" buttons and the back strap on his trousers. He parked his coat on the clothes line near the back shed one hot wash, coming in late one night from an excursion for black bass. He closed the serial the other day by capsizing a boat on Sabatis Pond and swimming ashore with the boat pointer between his teeth.

The Portland Horse Railroad Company has petitioned the City Council for permission to cut up its tracks.

Mr. Edwards of Scarboro, who called at the house of John Tickey, on the Saco road, Wednesday, was attacked by a dog and severely bitten on one hand and the hip.

The thunder storm at Bridgton, Thursday evening was unprecedented in severity. Highland Lake rose six inches, and the rain fell in such torrents that in many places the streets were washed out to the depth of several feet. Two dams near the water spouts were swept on Long Lake. The traffic was delayed considerably. The mail to Sebago came in the bakes, truly late on time and cutbody escaping the storm.

Thursday afternoon John Flannigan a laborer employed by James F. Flannigan at the new Lyman Block Portland was engaged with a number of other workmen in lowering a large block of granite into the cellar. One of the men cried out to Flannigan to come and help him below as last Flannigan attempted to do so the heavy stone block slid forward and caught the man's leg. The leg was pressed into the soft dirt and severe bruises were the extent of Flannigan's injuries, but the cries of the frightened man aroused the neighborhood. In a short time a united effort of fourteen or fifteen men to raise the stone. Flannigan was carried to his home.

Franklin

Dr. H. H. Converse, who left town some two years ago revisited Starks, recently but soon getting word that a warrant had been sworn out against him, left town by a back road and went through New Sharon in the night, escaping the officer in pursuit, reports the Farmington Journal.

The store of George Ranger, Fairbanks, was broken into Monday night, and from $40 to $60 in specie removed from the money drawer. A part of the specie have been found in the place where the thief had resorted for the night and the remainder will probably be found near there, reports the Chronicle.

As Mrs. William Sewall and daughter were driving towards Chesterville, Sunday afternoon, they were met by Mr. Wm. Blanding and wife of New Sharon, near Hutchins bridge, says the Chronicle. The bridge and the road also being narrow, the ladies saw it would be impossible to pass and attempted to back their horse to a more favorable point, but the wheels becoming turned they went off carriage occupants, horse and all, over a bank six feet high. Neither the ladies, horse nor carriage received any serious injury.

Samuel P. Merrill of East Dixfield, who escaped from the Farmington jail in September, 1873, and was captured the first of last week at Cape Elizabeth, was arraigned before Judge Chandler in the Farmington Municipal Court, Friday morning. The story of his wanderings since his escape briefly told, is as follows:

After swimming the Sandy River he made his way through the woods to the house of an old man who lived by the side of Wilton Pond, where he arrived late at night and to whom he told a plausible story of having lost his way. The next morning he made his way to Jay where he took dinner with a friend who did not know that he had been confined in jail. He then went to Canton where he bought a ticket to Lynn, Mass., and stayed there several years. He then came back to Portland, where he wandered up to Lewiston several times. Finally he settled down as a cooper in Cape Elizabeth, where he was arrested by Officer Gribbon, as heretofore related.

Kennebec

Miss Hattie I. Estes, a graduate of Wellesley College, has been employed to fill the place in the Coburn Classical Institute, so long and so ably filled by Miss Ricker, whose prostration by sickness continues.

Miss Jennie Vivian of Augusta, has the honor of receiving an invitation from the managers of the Eastern Maine State Fair to contribute two crayon portraits to the forthcoming fair. At their suggestion she has selected as subjects the portrait of Hannibal Hamlin and that of a child.

Friday afternoon about four o'clock while the wind changed so suddenly a fierce squall or waterspout struck the surface of the river opposite Augusta. Such was its force that large masses of water were scooped up from the river and transported some distance. Between the first and second boom piers spray was carried 30 or 40 feet into the air and to the willow trees that fringe the shore.

The regatta for oarsmen, on the occasion of the great festival of sports at Lake Maranacook on September 10th, promises to be a most successful affair. The committee having the affair in hand are busy arranging the details for the event, and have the assistance of Mr. M. F. Davis. Thus far it has been decided to have two professional races, one for four-paired shells and the other for four-oared working boats. There will be four cash prizes in each of these races—in the shell race, purses of $300 to first, $100 to second, $60 to third and $40 to fourth. In the four-oared working boats the prizes will be $100 to first, $75 to second, $50 to third, and $25 to fourth. McKay, Plaisted, Hamm, Rossi, Conley, Hosmer, Ten Eyck, the Gookins, West Ends, and numerous other crews, embracing the leading professional oars of the country are expected to participate. The races for the amateurs will be a feature, and will embrace Senior and Junior singles, doubles and fours. All oarsmen entered are to be furnished with free transportation for themselves and their boats, and crews who may not wish to go to the Grotto of bringing boats will have boats rigged and prepared for their use by the committee. The prizes for the amateurs will embrace gold watches, opera glasses and gold medals.

Knox

The Port Clyde correspondent of the Portland Press writes Ex-Gov. Dingley was in this village, Thursday, ascertaining the wishes and wants of the coast fishermen in regard to the action that may be taken by our next Congress relative to a removal of the fishery treaty with the Canadian government. We are much pleased to see our Congressmen labor in our behalf.

Rockland has been paying 6 per cent interest on a debt of $100,000. Mayor Case's administration has refunded it at 4 per cent. The Courier-Gazette calls attention to the fact that here is a saving of $2,000 a year—a sum sufficient to more than pay the salaries of the city officers, nearly enough to run the fire department a year, or nearly enough to pay the police bills for a year.

Lincoln

Chas. W. Cider, of Whitefboro, Me., is the last survivor of the prisoners who were crowded into the Dartmoor prison during the war of 1812. He is now over ninety, but has harvested his own crops alone for a number of years past.

Oxford

One of the most terrific showers known for years occurred at Norway, Thursday. A steady fall of rain continued for more than five hours, badly washing roads and damaging crops. The lightning was brilliant and frequent and peals of thunder almost incessant.

The Norway Advertiser says: The people are still very much interested in the question "whether the shoe factory is going or not?" Though many different theories are afloat it is the fear of all interested in the prosperity of our town that the shoe factory will go.

Lightning struck Wm. Tennell's barn on Otisfield Gore during the late shower of Thursday. Frank Tennell was harnessing a horse in the barn floor at the time. Both he and the horse were thrown down and Mr. Tennell rendered unconscious. A doctor was immediately called and at last accounts Mr. Tennell was in a fair way of recovery.

Two washouts were encountered on the Oxford-Sebago road, Friday, one a mile west of Hayford, and the other a mile west of the first. They were sixty feet long, and ten feet deep. Passengers were transferred, and trains went through delayed about one hour. It rained the Thursday night previous very severe in the mountains, so that a perfect flood, carrying away many fences and swelling the rivers greatly.

The track has been repaired and trains were running as usual Friday evening.

Sagadahoc

The damage to the steamer Islander, which went ashore on Hog Island ledge, Sunday, was slight. The forefoot and forward portion of the keelson were torn some by the rough ledge. The forward wood ends were started off which caused her to leak. She came on the railway at Boothbay Bay morning and resumed her trips, arriving at her landing in Bath about six o'clock.

Capts. Wm. Blethen of Brockton, Mass., and Capt. Galen Blethen, his son, from Hong Kong, China, are visiting at A. G. Brown, on Green street, Bath. Capt. Galen Blethen left Bath fifteen years ago for Hong Kong where he has since been employed on an Ham passenger steamer, first as second mate, then first mate, and for the past two years as captain. He will return to take command of his steamer the first of February.

Somerset

Simeon F. Wood, who attended Bennett at Gardiner, last week, is a native of Clinton, where his mother and four sisters and four brothers now live. The Fairfield Journal says of him: "He is well known here and his frequent rows on the street when in liquor made him a terror to his companions. He stabbed Truman in Charles Hogg's camp four years ago and has always managed to pick a quarrel with inoffensive persons who were afraid of him. He is a coarse, brutal fellow, and has come at last to the point his friends have long predicted."

York

The Gough Willard, Capt. Mullock, while fishing near Old Orchard, Thursday, ran on to the ledge off Pronts Neck. The tug Baker got her off Friday and towed her to the Pool. She lost her rudder and sustained other slight damage. She has 150 barrels of mackerel aboard.

If Mrs. Barrows is hung she will not be the first woman ever hung in Maine. Mrs. Cornish lived in York, not far from Mrs. Barrows home, and was executed in 1044, for the murder of her husband. The next woman to be executed was Patience Sumpson, an Indian woman, who was executed at York in 1745 for the murder of Barbara Mitchell, a child eight years old, whom she drowned in a well. Several ladies and coadjutes of woman suffrage, in Augusta, are interested in the matter of commutation of sentence for Mrs. Barrows. One of them states that the murderess was tried by men, and if there was no commutation, would be hung by men, urging this as a reason why there should be clemency shown.

Helen Hunt Jackson

[Boston Traveller.]

Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson, better known as Helen Hunt, and by the tallahawk initials "H. H.," died in San Francisco on the evening of August 12, after a lingering illness of many weeks. Mrs. Jackson was the daughter of Prof. N. W. Fiske, of Amherst College, and was born at Amherst, Mass., in 1830. When about twenty five years of age she married Captain Edward B. Hunt, who was in the engineer service in the United States Army. Captain Hunt rose to the rank of major, and was killed by the premature explosion of a torpedo that he had himself invented. Her only child, a son, died when about eight years old, and in the loneliness of her double bereavement she was first led to literary expression. Her gift had hitherto been an unconscious one. She had been occupied with life itself, not with its description or analysis. She had, apparently, little of the introspective faculty. She was a keen observer of men and affairs, and she had an almost passionate love of nature, but it was the love of the artist, not of the scientist, and it has been noted as an anomaly that one who has written so much and so accurately of the flora of the West knew nothing of the botanical names or properties of flowers. Her gift for observation, united with this natural fluency of expression, at once established her success from the moment she made her first venture in authorship. A series of letters from California to the New York Independent was almost, if not quite, her first essay into the literary field. Later she established herself at the Bregport House in New York, and passed several years there, with interludes of travel—years which were rich in productive work. Somewhere about 1870 her first volume of poetry, "Verses, by H. H.," was published by Messrs. J. R. Osgood & Co. It struck a note of success. It was poetry for the poets. Recognition, enthusiastic while finely discriminative, came to her. Emerson said of them: "The poems of a lady who contents herself with the initials H. H. have rare merit of thought and expression. She has been called our finest woman poet. The woman might well be omitted." In 1873 Messrs. Roberts Brothers bought from the Osgood house these plates, and with 87 pages of new poems added by the writer, brought out a new and enlarged edition of these "Verses." The poems are work of extraordinary originality and power. They bear no trace of the subjective and emotional cast that has come to be almost an unfailing characteristic of women's poetry, and to which H. H. and Edith Thomas furnish marked exceptions. A subtlety of thought and that spiritual insight rather than merely æsthetic feeling, inform the "Verses" of H. H. to a degree that insures them poetic immortality. The publication of her "Bow-gunn" alone assured her the title of poet. In it these lines occur:

The fool asks: With what ideal? in joy or pain?
Helped or unhelped? and loving? or against?
Surrounded by the earthly friends?
I know not: am I glory to at: to
Not know: I ask for eternity against me is God counted mean worthy of such fate
That I [illegible] the toil?
I hope
That if it be
In so than enough! I envy not to ask
Itself immortal immortality.
In all the [illegible] space a will not dim!
A place design'd
So small, so low
That to a flying [illegible] soul might
Often the earth want [illegible]
Of its great thick sea
Lights for Christ's gentle [illegible]

I boy [illegible] ask or wish
But think that I must
I [illegible] fear not and I cannot [illegible]
Own patient it a great certainty of peace
In me as God counts [illegible]
I must [illegible]

It was by the solicitation of Mr. R. W. Gilder the editor of the Century Magazine, that Helen Hunt first tried her power in fiction and her initial work in this field was "Mercy Philbrick's Choice" the opening volume of the No Name Series of Messrs. Roberts Brothers. Bringing them this manuscript, she wished to publish it anonymously. Mr. Niles talked the matter over with her, and the result of the consultation was the doubling of the No Name Series, to which H. H. was forthwith invited. Betty's Strange Illness. Her other books all published by Messrs. Roberts Brothers are: The Story of Rosa, 1870; Bits of Travel, 1872; Bits of Travel at Home, 1878; Bits of Talk about Home Matters, 1873; Bits of Talk in Verse and Prose; Nelly's Silver Mine; Sketches from Cape Cod; Mercy Philbrick's Choice; The Hunter Cats of Connorlee; and her last and greatest work, "Ramona: A Century of Dishonor" was published by Messrs. Roberts Brothers at the request of the Boston house has just published the plates from Harper's, and with the addition of much new matter from the author—matter received within the last ten days—they are about to issue a new edition of this work. A few years since Helen Hunt was married to Colonel W. S. Jackson, a banker of Denver, Col. They had a beautiful home on a height at Colorado Springs, and she travelled much through the Western country and passed seasons in New Mexico and Southern California.

Mrs. Jackson united, in a unique degree, the refined instinct with the power of literary expression and the artistic feeling that made her expression vivid and graphic. Her versatility was perpetually renewing itself. She was quick in sympathy with all forms of human life. The Indian appealed to her, and her efforts on his behalf, and in the appreciation of the public at large, and after the publication of her romantic exposition of these outrages in "Century of Dishonor" she was appointed special Indian Commissioner by President Arthur. In other authors she was a generous faithful friend. It would be interesting to know what Alice Wellington Rollins of Mrs. Jackson's few letters of the younger writers of the magazines have owed their success, not to that instant recognition of genius by the editor which is popularly supposed to be the secret but to the generous appreciation and encouragement of Helen Jackson who has approached many an editor with manuscript in hand and insisted "You don't want any more poetry. I know but you shall listen to this" and who will lend to the poems of the Oxseed Dialects by one of the Good ole sisters or to the "Rest of Edith Thomas a depth of expression a lucidity of meaning, and a grace of rendering which she would never try to give to her own work excluding as she does us, I would give anything—[illegible] if I had written that myself."

There is no literary woman of the age of whom so little has been written as of Helen Hunt Jackson. She deprecated all personal notice and her feeling about this is well expressed in a little song she wrote on Literary Hysterics, in which she says regarding this mania for publicity:

Where may be the remedy. For this will be spread and widely spread this disease among writers we do not know. It is not easy to stop up courageous faith; that there is any remedy. Still, nature abhors noise and hates and shuns of all sorts, quiet and patience are the great secrets of her force, whether it be a mountain or a soul that she would fashion. We must believe that sooner or later there will come a time in which silence shall have its dues, and creation be crowned king of speech and melody; meanwhile, spectacular hysterical language be condemned as disreputable as it really is.

It is too early to make any proper critical estimate of Helen Hunt Jackson. She was known as a writer as much as author, and her literary work is but the partial expression of a life that was in itself greater than anything she has written. It is now an open secret that she was the author of the "Saxe Holm" stories. Poet, novelist and reformer, she was, perhaps, greatest of all—a good friend, and no words can so truly interpret her nature as those of one of her own exquisite songs, entitled "Last Words":

Dear hearts whose love has been so sweet I know
That I am looking backward as I go
Am lingering while I say to all this rest
Of tears or joy are mingled tears of joy —
Do not adorn with costly shrouds, or cry
Or flower, the little grave that shelters me
As the wild wind sweeps goods grow up in hours
And back and forth all summer, unstirred,
Let all it is tiny tenderness creep
Let the sweet grass the last years tangles keep
And when remembering me you come some day
And stand there, speak to praise but only say
How she loved me! It was for that she was so dear
Those are the only words that I shall smile to hear."

No doubt Mackin the Chicago "fine worker," was delighted at the pardon of Mullen. If by any chance Mackin goes to the penitentiary he will place his trust in "Presidential Leniency!"

The Minneapolis Tribune says if Mr Cleveland is elected President in 1888 he will have to be elected by some party not yet in existence. The Tribune evidently has a poor opinion of the Mugwumpian party making no account of at whatever

There is some discontent among Southern Democrats with Indian Commissioner Atkins for putting his son, his nephew and other members of his family into cosy clerkships in his bureau. The feeling is that Atkins has misunderstood his appointment to mean the whole family.

It is suggested that the mixing up of the names of Postmasters appointed in Maine is due to the fact that the dispenser in chief was an active participant in the counting-out conspiracy and that he became so accustomed to the changing of names in election returns by the conspirators that he has since been unable to get rid of the reprehensible habit.—Boston Journal.

Refering to the rather lively meeting of the Democratic State Committee the Kennebec Journal says One of the kernels which the Democratic State Committee found difficult to swallow at the Lake Waterville meeting was the commission of $300 paid by an appointee Democratic postmaster recently appointed, for the potent influence of the Maine office broker, at Washington This only added fresh fuel to the Lincolnville matter

The New York Evening Post authority for the statement that Mr Kelley, the rejected Minister to Austria, is in Switzerland, where he will remain through the summer, and the probability is that his salary will continue until he returns and resigns That is pretty rich for a "reform" Administration Kelley would no doubt like to remain abroad all winter on exactly the same terms. Secretary Bayard's idea of reforming the consular service is unique to say the least.

The conflict just commenced in New York between the new customs officials and the Civil Service Commission has greater significance than appears, says a Washington despatch It is shown here that it is the result of a determined effort to break down the civil service system The extraordinary feature of the matter is that if the President is sincere he should allow his new officers to enter into a crusade of this sort The New York decision to the civil service will be watched with much interest by the Democratic leaders who are determined if possible to sharply make the issue next winter and to destroy the existing law

The Brooklyn Democrats are mad over the appointments in the navy yard because of the large share of the patronage given to Hubert O Thompson the boss of the New York County Democracy The removal of the Republican foreman was determined upon by Secretary Whitney and it was understood after the appointment of Thompson's man, Hedden to the New York collectorship that the Kings County Democrats were to be given the bulk of the Brooklyn Navy Yard patronage To insure this a list was made out and indorsed by Boss McLaughlin but this list was mainly ignored Only two out of twelve foremanships were given to Kings County Democrats, and it is worth noting that both these appointees live in wards that are heavily Republican

The Indianapolis Mugwumps are not satisfied with the so called investigation of Postmaster Jones They are urging the President to throw aside the whitewashing report and to give a ruling upon the remainder of the charges not considered by the Commissioner Dorman Swift, the leader in the matter says In effect we have said to President Cleveland "You promised George William Curtis that faithful Government employes are to be protected Now here are a large number who have not been protected We want to know whether you propose to keep or to break your promise" We are going to have an answer one way or the other, and we expect it from President Cleveland himself It is no use, Vice President Hendricks and his man Jones carry too many guns for any Mugwump assault.

The Democratic State Committee meeting the other night seems to have been a good deal of a bear garden says the Portland Press Mr Bass, of Bangor, "aspersed" Chairman Brown, charging him with doing a sort of brokerage business in appointments Mr L M Staples, of Knox County, defended Chairman Brown and "aspersed" Mr Bass alleging that Mr. Bass was jealous of Mr Brown's great influence at Washington After this controversy was quieted Major Hastings, of Fryeburg, threw another apple of discord into the midst of the assembled brethren by offering a resolution endorsing the Hon Dion Bradbury and Gen S I Anderson for the two leading positions in the custom house A long wrangle ensued, ending in the defeat of the resolution, which was looked upon generally as a move in General Anderson's interest The only thing the committee seemed to be thoroughly agreed upon was that Col Morton should stick to the Augusta postoffice

The warm weather must have affected the temper of the New York Herald as it has given the President a severe scolding It selects as its topic the recent correspondence between the President and an unknown man over a judgeship appointment and while commending the former for the general tone of his letter pertinently asks why the appointment of a man "morally and professionally unfit" for a judge has not been revoked "It seems to us," says the Herald, "that Mr. Cleveland has in this case committed a very gross and serious outrage on the public Of what use are loud professions of a desire to improve the public service when he keeps in so important a place as a judgeship a man 'morally and professionally unfit.' Such persistence in wrong-doing is unworthy of a President who professes a strong desire to 'give the people better government and better officers.'" The Herald will learn in time that there is a vast difference between the professed and the actual policy of this Administration.

"That Pestilent Sheet"

Fearing that our evening contemporary may overlook the following very appreciative notice given it in the editorial columns of the Boston Herald of Aug 13th, we quote it

It took the Bangor Commercial to discover that "the formal commemoration of Gen Grant appears to have been even more marked throughout the South than in the North" Of course this is not so hearty and honest as was the tribute of respect paid by southern men to Grant, The Commercial is an outgrowth of a paper that had its type and presses and all the rest of its property fired out of the windows of its office one August day twenty-four years ago for its disloyalty, and burned in a public square This makes its tribute to Grant more touching than that of the southern generals who fought him from the front

The relative attitude of the fighting rebels and the cowardly copperheads is correctly stated, but the Herald is mistaken in assuming that the Commercial has ever paid any tribute to General Grant It has been as eager as the Herald in arguing that the Republican party should immediately disband because the rebel Generals Buckner and Johnston attended General Grant's funeral, but it has uttered no word of eulogy or commendation of the great achievements—the crushing of the rebellion, resistance to infation and defeat of republication—upon which the fame of the great soldier and President was built and will forever stand

Democrats who are trying to create the impression that the investigation of the management of the Coast Survey has unearthed the misdeeds of Republican rascals may find hereafter that members of their own party were responsible for most of the irregularities discovered For many years the responsibilities of Coast Survey administration have been mainly in the hands of men who are Democrats although party affiliations have not at any time in recent years been regarded in the making of appointments For example Professor Hilgard, who is a Democrat, was appointed Superintendent on account of his scientific abilities and attainments by a Republican President To the same extent, however, Democratic Congressmen seem to have been able to find places on the pay rolls of the Coast Survey for their dependents and friends According to the report of the recent investigation one of the chief labors discovered was the payment of salaries to men and women who rendered no service therefor It is asserted that a relative of a Democratic Congressman is one of the persons who thus drew a salary for which no service was rendered Another case is said to be that of Congressman Lowry's private secretary, who, it is asserted has been in receipt of a comfortable salary from the Coast Survey although his services have been wholly at the disposal of the Indiana Congressman

The New York Herald and the Evening Post do not agree in their opinion of the Postmaster General's attempt to make a little political capital on the question of carrying the foreign mails The Herald says

The Evening Post calls this in an American Administration because the Postmaster General will not divide the $400 000 subsidy lobbied through Congress for the benefit of a steamboat ring. If it is un American to stop stealing and extravagance, the people want more of it

The Post says

"In brief, their dispute with the Postmaster General is not upon a policy, but upon a state of agreed facts In the forum of public opinion they have the advantage that they are asking for something which Congress intended to give them Their published statement is argumentative and respectful, without bitterness or passion a plain and straightforward appeal for what they consider their rights under the law and the facts It cannot fail to make a strong impression, and this impression will be considerably deepened by the turning of the Japan and China mails via Europe and the Suez Canal This looks like a step backward, and even if it turns out that the mails can be carried as quickly by Alexandria as by San Francisco it will not be equally satisfactory to the American people The Pacific Mail Company are quite justified in refusing to perform the service for less than the rate prescribed by Congress

"You can find anything in the Bible if you look for it, says the Independent "see this about Grant, from 1 Samuel xvi 18 "Behold I have seen a son of Jesse,

That is a mighty valiant man and a man of war, and prudent in matters, and a comely person, and the Lord is with him

Pension Office "Reform"

GENERAL BLACK ON EXAMINING BOARDS—PUTTING OUT REPUBLICAN SURGEONS AND PUTTING IN DEMOCRATS

[Washington Correspondence of the Tribune.

Letters have begun to reach Washington from Union veterans in all parts of the country which indicate a strong probability that Pension Commissioner Black will be called to account by Congress next winter for his disregard of the interests and rights both of pension claimants and the Government The chief cause of complaint thus far seems to be the reorganization on a partisan basis of the boards of examining surgeons and the appointment of many unfit and incompetent simply because they are Democrats For fifteen years at least before General Black took charge of the Pension Bureau no man was appointed an examining surgeon or dismissed from that office on account of his politics Hundreds of the examining surgeons were Democrats, simply because they were found to be the ablest and most experienced surgeons in the places where their services were required But no application was ever asked whether he was a Democrat or a Republican and no examination of the applications on file in the Pension Office when General Black took charge would show that in few cases, indeed, did applicants say that they were Republicans or Democrats

A like examination of applications filed during the past five months would show that nearly all the applicants took care to state that they were Democrats One of them, to make his case more sure, not only stated that he was a Democrat, but that his wife and all his children were Democrats too It is true that when Commissioner Black took charge a majority of the examining surgeons was composed of men who were Republicans This state of things was due to a rule of selection which prescribed that in all cases where they could be found, capable surgeons who had served as such during the late War should be preferred A large majority of the men who possess the latter qualification happen to be Republicans One of Commissioner Black's first acts was to issue a proclamation of his intention to reorganize the examining boards on a partisan basis, so as to have each one composed of two Democrats and one Republican In a majority of cases he has probably adhered to this purpose, but a good many of the new boards are said to be composed wholly of Democrats

But this alone would be a matter of small consequence comparatively. The more serious grounds of complaint are, first, the sudden removal of all the members of many boards and the appointment of incapable or inexperienced men in their places; and, second, the failure to have new boards promptly organized In all there are about four hundred examining boards, each of which consists of three members. In Ohio, there are twenty-two, all of which have been "reorganized." In eleven cases every one of the old members was suddenly removed and new men appointed who are wholly without experience. Most of these new men are Democrats and were appointed for no better reason than because they are Democrats and Democratic politicians urged their appointment In each of the other eleven cases two new and inexperienced men were appointed in the places of the experienced men It will be observed that long experience does not save even some Democrats from removal under this brave scheme of "reorganization" For example, there is the case of Dr John G. Orton, of Binghamton, New York, who had been for many years a member of the examining board at that place He is a Democrat and during the last Presidential campaign an effort was made to secure his removal for that reason Of course it failed, because of his superior qualifications and long experience which made his services valuable to the Government, as well as to honest pension claimants But since Commissioner Black came in Dr Orton has been unceremoniously kicked out and a new and inexperienced man fills his place

Another case is that of the examining board in Baltimore, where three faithful, capable and experienced surgeons—one of them, Dr Dodge, is an army ex surgeon, who himself draws a pension on account of disabilities incurred in the Union service—were dismissed and their places filled with three young inexperienced doctors who are manifestly incapable to protect the interests of the Government, or of honest pension claimants The new men were appointed at the instance of Senator Gorman and other Democratic leaders, and of course all of them are Democrats

Still another case, and one which has already excited some public attention, is that of the examining board in Boston Commissioner Black reorganized this board by appointing Dr Gavin, a reputable Democratic physician, recommended by Congressman Collins and "Dr" Bartlett, whose attorney is Benjamin F Butler Dr Whittier, the remaining member of the Republican, and Dr Gavin both refused to serve on board with General Butler's client Dr Whittier came to Washington and gave Commissioner Black the reasons for their refusal and begged him to investigate certain charges affecting Dr Bartlett's professional standing and personal character Instead of doing so, General Black left it to General Butler to say whether or not Bartlett should be retained and decided in the affirmative despite the objections of Congressman Collins and Drs Whittier and Gavin General Black passed through Boston twice while the matter was pending, but did not think it worth his while to stop, and made personal inquiries He then appointed Dr Morton Prince son of ex-Mayor F O Prince, in place of Dr Gavin, but as soon as the former discovered that he was to be associated with Bartlett, he sent his resignation to General Black by telegraph and followed it with a scathing letter rebuking the Commissioner for his persistence in retaining Bartlett in the face of the charges against him

One of the charges is that Bartlett succeeded in obtaining for a mutual old man who was ill with consumption, and who had agreed to give the agent one-half the amount of the policy—$5,000—for keeping up the premiums and assessments Papers in this case, as well as in another one, showing that Bartlett had been dismissed from his position as examiner of the Insurance Company for reasons not creditable to himself, were laid before Commissioner Black by Dr Whittier Commissioner Black's next step was to find two doctors who were willing to serve with Bartlett One of these is Dr Booth According to statements made by Dr Whittier the same man who in 1880 represented himself to Colonel Plympton and other Butler managers in Boston as the editor and proprietor of a German newspaper published in that State, the list of which he offered to transfer to the Butler cause for the sum of $800 While investigations by Colonel Plympton have since disclosed the fact that Dr Booth had nothing whatever to do with the newspaper in question the editor and proprietor of which was both indignant when the herald of his greatness

Such a condition of affairs as has existed in the Boston board for the past six weeks is of course extremely injurious to the interests of the Government as well as to pension claimants The board of examining surgeons, it should be remembered fixes the degree of disability upon which a pension is granted The interests of the Government, equally and justice to the pensioner demands that the members of the examining board shall be not only honest but capable

But the pension claimants have suffered in another way through lack of efficiency in the administration of the Pension Office since Commissioner Black initiated his new scheme of "reorganization" A claimant after his case has been passed by the Pension Office, is ordered to appear before an examining board at a specified time and place to be examined as to his degree of his disability Within the last three months hundreds of pension claimants who have been so ordered to appear, and have appeared have found the boards disorganized and no official in existence and have therefore been subjected to thousands of dollars of unnecessary expense and to much unnecessable delay in the settlement of their claims The St Louis board was in a state of disorganization for six weeks because the warring Democratic factions in that city could not agree in respect to a certain Democratic representative on the board and the whole work of examining claimants in that city had to wait until the difficulty could be composed Because General Black lacked either the courage or the inclination to make an appointment which would not be satisfactory to both of the Democratic factions In a number of cases it is asserted Commissioner Black has removed every member of the examining board and has not appointed their successors for several weeks thereafter, although claimants under the orders of the Pension Office were appearing once and sometimes twice a week to be examined

SILSBY'S PIANO, ORGAN AND FURNITURE POLISH.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to the above Polish Having been used and thoroughly tested for several years in the Music Rooms of Mr Silsby it is confidently recommended as being much superior to anything else in the market Its special points of superiority over all other polishes are as follows viz

1st—It is perfectly harmless and will not penetrate or injure the most delicate wood or highly polished surface

2d—It readily cleanses the surface and when rubbed dry forms a thin, hard coating which we believe has not been equalled in durability or in brilliancy of lustre

3d—It is easily applied

The great importance of using an ingredient that will successfully destroy the penetrating oils of polish cannot fail to be appreciated

Do not fail to try a bottle You will certainly not allow yourself to be without it after once giving it a trial

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The General Land Office has received information that Judge Deady, of the Oregon Circuit Court, has decided that pre-emption entries can only be cancelled by proceedings in courts. Commissioner Walker announced that the practice hitherto followed in the General Land Office would not be changed before the Supreme Court of the United States shall have an opportunity of passing on the points raised by Judge Deady.

On Saturday he drew a check against it for $2,00. The officers of the bank declined to pay the check until the draft of the genuineness of the draft

They had forwarded the draft to New York and telegraphed to that city and found that the Bank of the Republic had paid the draft without hesitation and apparently everything was all right. The officials of the Commercial Bank were still more suspicious as Conklin failed to inquire why his check had been dishonored and they telegraphed to the Municipal Bank asking if the draft was all right. They received a prompt answer "No" and all the money drawn by this bank. It is alleged that as soon as Conklin found out that suspicions were aroused he left the city

THE CHARLES RIVER MYSTERY

Believed to be Cleared Up.

Arrest of Frank Mitchell for the Murder of his Wife.

BOSTON, Aug. 17. On the evening of Thursday, July 23d, the upper portion of a woman's body, encased in a bag, was found floating in Charles River, near the Union bosthouse. The lower limbs and lower portion of the abdomen were missing. The following afternoon a second portion was found off Mystic wharf, around which was wrapped a piece of carpet of a peculiar design. Two days later the remaining parts were found floating in the harbor. The remains were removed to the morgue, where a plaster cast was taken of the face and where hundreds viewed the body for the purpose of identification. At one time it was believed to be that of Mrs. Rose Gilbert, who, it was alleged, had been missing from her home in Charlestown for some time.

This clue was followed out and it was proved that Mrs. Gilbert was alive and well in Albany. After working upon several clues with no better result it was found that Mrs Nelly Mitchell, residing at 191 Endicott street, had been missing several days prior to the discovery of the remains, and acting upon this information the detectives obtained strong evidence pointing to her as the victim. Their investigations culminated to-day in the arrest of her husband, Frank Mitchell, on suspicion of being the murderer. The officers also arrested Patrick Flynn, brother of Mrs Mitchell, and locked him up as a witness.

A search was made of the house this afternoon which resulted in finding a portion of carpet corresponding exactly with that found wrapped around the second portion of the remains. Besides this evidence the detectives are in possession of other evidence which they claim points almost conclusively to Mitchell as the murderer. It is known that Mitchell and his wife had quarrels, during one of which she received a black eye and was knocked down. Mitchell is a native of Malta, 45 years of age and carried on the plumber's business at his residence. He was arrested without any show of resistance. He appeared cool and collected and at present, quarrels chatted with the officers around him.

Suddenly his eyes rested on the plaster cast of the dead woman's face. He studied it carefully then with a forced laugh exclaimed "That's not my wife, that don't look anything like her." The prisoner was then searched and placed behind the bars. The detectives decline to make public several of the most damaging facts in their possession at present. The case has been in charge of Inspector Geraughty and has involved a great amount of excitement and work.

A MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

A Steamer Blown up with Dynamite—Several Persons Injured

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 17 An explosion on the steamer S M Felton occurred just after she had left her dock on her trip to Wilmington Del As she was opposite pier 8 the passengers and crew were startled by an explosion which shook the boat from stem to stern and when the smoke cleared away it was found that the entire forward part of the vessel above the water line had been badly damaged and a number of passengers injured some of them severely. The pilot house and upper deck were lifted and fell to the lower deck. The bow presented a scene of complete wreck. The injured were removed to the Pennsylvania Hospital

There were 60 people on the boat, men, women and children, when the explosion occurred. The wrecked upper works took fire and a frightful panic ensued. This was specially checked by the coolness of a number of men. A large number were almost or quite stunned by the shock. Some were in no way excited or affected by the upheaval. They passed quietly among the shrieking passengers searching out the wounded. The promptness with which the assistance came from the sides from passing steamers and from the shore alarmed the panic and prevented the fire from spreading. The passengers were then ashore and the steamer towed down stream.

There is but little doubt about the explosion being due to dynamite or gun powder, though no one seems to know how it was taken on board. It seems to be a fortunate fact that the people on board escaped death. Witnesses say that at the moment of the explosion everything became enveloped in darkness and the boat rocked as in a heavy storm. It was supposed that no one jumped overboard but a man who secured a life preserver has since come ashore at Wilmington wharf apparently uninjured.

The list of wounded now numbers sixteen. Edward Shaw of Philadelphia, was injured internally and it is thought will die. The passengers were mostly women, making trades for a fresh dip into the river. Each rushing escape is accounted for by the fact that but few of them were in the forward end of the steamer.

It is the impression of all who saw it that the explosive had been intentionally placed there as no freight is ever allowed to be stored in front of the boiler bulkhead. A careful examination of the wreck was made for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of the explosion. The investigation established the fact that the explosion was caused by dynamite. The explosive had been placed forward directly left out of the hold of the boiler. Detectives are investigating the case. The Felton was insured for $40 000

Patrick Kenneally and John Garvin indulged in a cutting affray at Taunton Mass., Sunday night in which both were severely injured about the head. Both were held for the grand jury.

Farmers in Malden Essex County, Ontario, are suffering heavy losses from the ravages of cholera among their swine.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, of England, who was married Saturday in a letter to the papers, says he cannot see why the details of his private life should interest the public. The father of Lord Coleridge's bride was formerly a judge in Bengal. The lady's age is 32 years.

At 31 o'clock Sunday night three men in a small boat drifted beneath the paddle wheels of a passing steamer at Pier 1, North River, New York. One becoming frightened jumped overboard and was drowned. His name is not known. The others were arrested on a charge of having stolen the boat.

A party of miners having finished their work for the day got on a carriage at the foot of the Steam Shaft, Scranton, Pa., Saturday night to be hoisted 620 feet to the mouth of the mine. A young man named Michael Coggins was one of the group. One hundred feet from the surface a low narrow tunnel used for the storage of mine supplies led off from the main shaft. Two or three men were standing in this tunnel with lights and as soon as Coggins saw them he thought the surface had been reached and leaped from the carriage which was still in motion. He went down the shaft a depth of 420 feet with an appalling cry and was dashed to death at the bottom.

Another meeting in favor of Riel was held in Montreal Sunday night and was attended by about 4,000 persons. Addresses were delivered by F. X. Lemieux and Chas Fitzpatrick, two of Riel's counsel. Resolutions condemning the trial as unconstitutional were passed.

The members of Cigar Makers' Union No. 144 met in Pythagor Hall in Canal street, New York, Sunday evening. Ezekiel Noy Kirk in the course of his address reeled and fell, dead upon the platform.

A Pittsburgh, Pa., despatch says the outlook in the iron trade has not been more favorable for a number of years than it is at present. Signs of improvement are coming to the surface every day and manufacturers are beginning to concede that the black mantle of depression is being gradually lifted from the staple industries of Pittsburgh. Orders are increasing rapidly and many mills are running on double time. The worst feature at present is the strike among the nailers, which from present indications does not look as if an amicable solution of the difficulty was near at hand.

The Galveston, Texas, News, in its issue of Sunday, opened out on the State Land Board by reviewing its work. The paper now makes claim that the board by its negligent and mismanagement has lost to the school fund of the State the sum of $1,500 000 which should have been collected under the law from the alien men during the past 18 months. The News says: This loss of $1,750,000 was not accidental and not being accidental it is presumably the result of intelligent design. This creates a sensation. The board is composed of the Governor, State Treasurer, Land Commissioner, Comptroller and Attorney General. This galaxy comprises the most distinguished politicians in Texas.

Barker, of this city, left on the Flying Yankee yesterday afternoon and will deliver an address at Sebago to-day.

The Flying Yankee, which left this city for the west yesterday afternoon, was the largest of the season. There were four common passenger cars filled and three parlor cars in which every seat was sold. Nearly all the people on the train came from Bar Harbor, but their places at that resort were filled by the crowd which went down last night, there being three passenger coaches and four parlor cars on the train completely filled with people.

A special train composed of a locomotive and the two private cars of Messrs. W. H. and W. K. Vanderbilt came up from Mount Desert Ferry in 1 hour and 28 minutes yesterday forenoon. They will remain in this city to-day and leave for Bar Harbor to-morrow morning. Mr. Nealley, who is in the party, is a brother of Miss or Nealley.

HISTORICAL. The cannon which was lately taken from the river by the dredger may have belonged to Sabatonstall's fleet which was blown up in the river near the ferry way when pursued by the British in 1779. Among the vessels of the fleet were the ships Monmouth of 22 guns, the Sally of 22 guns, Black Prince of 18, Hazard of 10, Diligence of 14, Tyrannicide of 14, Providence of 14, Spring Bird of 12, and the Rover of 10, or nine vessels of war carrying in all 152 guns. It is stated that adventurers came to the mouth of the Penobscot in one of the largest number of vessels ever equipped with a diving bell in Maine from the wreck of a great number of cannon and other material. There is a prospect that more guns will be found by the dredger.

Fomry of the Calvary Church Suburb, Mass. A large circle of friends were present from Bangor and Oldtown. The Miss Cousins, of Old town, the bride's cousins of age acted as bridesmaids. Nothing to Wear.

BY REBECCA R. PIERCE

It was a sultry summer day,
At work in her kitchen was Mistress Gray;
There was dinner to cook for a hungry crew,
And an extra amount of work to do
Of years she had been well a score,
And never repined at her lot before

But wishing to rest for a minute's space,
She chanced to read of a watering place,
Down by the breezy, cool sea shore,
And the beautiful toilets the ladies wore.
And the spirit of discontent that day,
Entered the heart of Mistress Gray

She thought of her own life, dull with care,
And worst of all, that she'd nothing to wear
Plaider, each moment, she came to see
How sadly stinted a woman may be,
With never a moment of time to spare—
A household drudge, with nothing to wear

"Nothing to wear," she said with a sigh,
"Though more deserving there's none than I!"
And the quite forgot in the sad outlook,
That the dinner was nothing for her to cook.
Nor heard the clock on the mantel chime
A warning to her of the flight of time

And so it happened that Farmer Gray,
When home he came for his dinner that day,
Found nothing to eat, and his wife in a pout,
And as many a man would do, no doubt,
(For a man of peace was Farmer Gray),
He told his wife in a pleasant way,

That though each day of his life he slaved,
He'd buy her the number of gowns she craved,
And whether for comfort or for show,
Down to the sea side she should go
So ended happily the despair
Of Mistress Gray, who had nothing to wear

Historical Memoranda.

Rev. Daniel Little who had performed missionary labor in Bangor and vicinity, and was well known and esteemed as a wise and judicious man of affairs, was appointed by Gov Bowdoin, of Massachusetts, to complete the negotiations with the Penobscot Indians, and to deliver the gifts from the Government

The following letter was written by him in May, 1788, his modesty leading him to distrust his ability to fulfill the commission to which he was appointed. He was induced to accept it, as will be seen by his letter to Major Treat, of June 17

Mr. Little was deputed by the First church in Wells, (now Kennebunk,) to ordain Rev. Seth Noble the first minister of Bangor, "without the great trouble and expense of convening a Council." This he did Sept. 10, 1786, offering the ordaining and installing prayer, giving the charge and the right hand of fellowship Mr. Noble preached the sermon

The documents below are copied from the Massachusetts Records, by Dr. Hatch, of Chelsea, Mass

WELLS, 1788

Honored Sir:—I am affected with gratitude for the honor done me in your Excellency's appointment of a Commissioner to the tribe of Indians at Penobscot, of which I received notice by letter from the Secretary the 11th instant I do not wish to excuse myself from any service to the public compatible with my ability and consistent with my home connections. As I have been absent from my people a part of the three preceding summers I thought it expedient to take their opinion, who have this day concurred with my acceptance of your Excellency's appointment, on condition of my supplying the pulpit without their care or expense. I purpose to wait upon your Excellency by the beginning of next week. If this delay will retard the business, I pray your Excellency would please to make another appointment, for nothing but a sense of duty to your Excellency and a conviction of some advantages arising from my personal acquaintance with the Indians has induced me to accept of your Excellency's appointment, for in all other respects I feel very unequal to a business which requires so much patience, delicacy and fortitude

I am, may it please your Excellency, your Excellency's most obedient, Humble servant,

DANIEL LITTLE.

Major Robert Treat, on Penobscot River near the head of the tide

Sir, I hereby, in the name and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, desire you to repair as soon as possible, to Indian Old Town, or any other Suitable place, where you have the highest probability of meeting the Penobscot Tribe of Indians, and inform their Chiefs that the Governor and Council have appointed me a Commissioner, to bring forward and Complete the Treaty the Commissioners made with them at Condeskeeg, and that I desire the Indians especially their Chiefs, to meet me on Condeskeeg, on next Friday afternoon, and to receive the articles, Blankets, and other things which are brought up from Major Bigelow's by the Governors order, to be delivered to them, when they sign the paper for the Confirmation of the Agreement.

Of your doings you will make a return to me at Condeskeeg—you are also desired by me to take some other suitable person whom you shall choose to assist you and to accompany the Indians to Condeskeeg.

DANIEL LITTLE, Commissioner.

Forbes' First Hit.

HOW A WELL-KNOWN WAR CORRESPONDENT GOT A START

Without moody with which to carry out his (Archibald Forbes) mission, he was at the beginning of the Franco-Prussian war sent out by Mr. Grant the then editor of the Morning Advertiser, to the theatre of operations. Naturally of his letters some came late, others never arrived at all, and after a few weeks he was recalled, to his bitter disappointment. On arrival in London with the latest information regarding the disposition of the German forces round Paris, he sought to dispose of his news to the London press. Meeting with a cold reception from the Times, he resolved to make one more attempt, and if that failed, to start a paper. This time he was successful, Mr. Robinson of the Daily News, saying, as soon as he had an inkling of the object of his visit:

"Yes, that sounds very interesting and valuable. Will you oblige me by writing three columns, on the subject, and will you consider five guineas a column adequate remuneration? If so, please let the copy be sent in as rapidly as possible."

Overjoyed, he sent in three columns, but finding he had a great deal more to say he called again at the office

"Mr. Robinson had gone. Was, then, the editor there? The editor was absent holiday-making, but I could see the acting editor. The acting editor was reading a proof. I thought him a little gruff for the moment, but long since I have grown to know how little of gruffness there is in the sweet and genial nature of Edward Pigott. I explained my dilemma to him—briefly, because he gave me the idea of being impatient. 'Is this your stuff?' he trenchantly asked, laying his finger on a slip of the proof before him. I glanced at it and said it was my stuff. 'Well, then,' said he, 'we'll take as much of this kind of stuff as you care to write.' And this remark terminated the interview.

Receiving from Mr. Pigott an order for further contributions, he visited the office once more the next afternoon, and was shown up to Mr. Robinson.

"'You've come for your cheque, I suppose,' said he, as it seemed to me a little shortly. 'No,' I explained. 'I have arranged with the acting editor to furnish some further contributions, and by his directions I have called to ask you to have a boy call round for copy in the same way as yesterday.' 'I think not,' said Robinson, with what struck me as an intentionally aggravating drawl. 'I don't think we will trouble you to write these contributions you speak of. I will explain the matter to Mr. Pigott.' I don't quite know what I did say; I know I lost my temper vehemently. And I believe I used strong language. I think I said something about having believed in editorial omnipotence, and my inability to understand this business of one man blowing hot and another blowing cold. Anyhow, I was not going to stand being made a fool of in this offhand easy style; and I'd take care that I didn't darken the doors of the Daily News any more. And with that, the perfervidum ingenium of my northern nationality being all ablaze, I removed myself abruptly from the presence, and swore my way down stairs into the street. 'Here, come back!' Robinson had shouted after me. 'I want to speak to you!' I fear that if he had acted on the strict letter of the brief retort I threw over my shoulder he would have had no occasion to give any subsequent orders to his coal merchant. I was striding up Bouverie street, fiercely turning behind my beard, when I felt a hand on my shoulder, and simultaneously I heard a voice—'Don't be a fool! I was going to say that I want you to start for Metz to-night!'"

Cancer of Tongue!

A Case Resembling that of Gen. Grant.

Some ten years ago I had a scrofulous sore on my right hand which gave me great trouble, and under the old time treatment was healed up, and I supposed I was well. I found, however, it had only been driven from the system to the region of potash and mercury, and in March, 1882, it broke out in my throat, and concentrated in what some of the doctors pronounced cancer on my tongue. I underwent treatment for this disease. Some six or seven of the best physicians in the country had me at different times under their charge, among them three specialists in this disease, one after another would exhaust their skill and drop me, for I grew worse continually. The cancer had eaten through my jaw, destroying the roof of my mouth and upper lip, that attacked my tongue, palate and lower lip, destroying the lot to all under lip entirely and half my tongue, eating out to the top of my left cheek bone and up to the left eye. From a hearty robust woman of 156 pounds, I was reduced to a mere frame of skin and bones, almost unable to turn myself in bed. I could not eat any solid food, but subsisted on liquids, and my tongue was so far gone I could not talk. The anguish of mind and the horrible sufferings of body I will not attempt to describe, neither can they be realized. Given up by physicians to die, with no hope of recovery upon the part of friends who sat around my bedside expecting every moment to be my last, in fact, my husband would place his hand on my nose now and then to see whether I was alive or not, and at one time all stockings but one bottle of Swift's Specific, and that one bottle was empty, and my death was reported all over the country.

Such was my wretched and helpless condition the first of last October (1884), when my friends commenced giving me Swift's Specific. In less than three months the cancer began sloughing, and the fearful aperture in my cheek has been closed and firmly knitted together. A process of a new under lip is progressing finely, and the tongue which was almost destroyed is being restored, and it seems that nature is supplying a new tongue. I can talk so that my friends can readily understand me, and can eat my food again. I am able to walk about wherever I please, without the assistance of any one, and have gained fifty pounds of flesh. All this is after the blessing of a merciful Heavenly Father, and the use of Swift's Specific. I am a wonder and a marvel to all my friends, the truth of whom is known by intense suffering, and have visited many of the physicians while I am not entirely well, yet my gratitude is none the less extensive, and I am confident that a perfect recovery is now in sight. If any doubt these facts I would refer them to Gen. John H. Bingham, State Senator of this district, who is my neighbor, Dr. T. S. Bradfield, of Lafayette, Ga., or to any other person living in the southern part of Trouppe County, Ga.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Lasting Hair Dressing, the Vigor is unequaled. It contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRUSH writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "About fall, my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. A great part of the hair that did remain was thin and worthless, and stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair, growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the Marathon (Ohio) Register, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and causes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANSON FAIRBAIRN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give signs of gray, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable importance to singers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. C. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "For two years my hair was falling out, and became very thin. I commenced using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and it was not long before the fall was stopped and a new growth commenced. In about a month, my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I recommend, and have recommended the Vigor to my friends, but you may use my testimonial to this effect as you please."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptoms, or conditions, are Eczema, Unnatural Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervousness and Physical Collapse, etc. It should be combated, eradicated, and thoroughly expelled from the system, if we would escape Consumption, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney or Liver Diseases, Tuberculous Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful blood alterative, reliable blood-purifying medicine. It has no effects at all in common with the drastic mercurials, which break down the system. Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of constitutional diseases and humors, At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, imparting healthful action to the entire organism and rejuvenating the entire system. The great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. This formula is generally known to the medical profession, and is favorably prescribed by physicians constantly prescribing AYER'S SARSAPARILLA in their practice.

Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and it therefore is the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
